DEATH OF CAPT. C. C. SMITH.

Veteran of Two Wars Expires Suddenly of Heart Disease.

Heart disease, from which he had long been a sufferer, caused the sudden death vesterday morning of Capt. Charles C. Smith of the Treasury Department at his residence, 711 11th street northwest. Although nearly seventy years of age and in feeble health, he visited his office every day in the headquarters of the fourth auditor of the Treasury, where, for over twelve years, he has been a trusted official. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from his late residence under the auspices of Eurnside Post, G. A. R., of which he was a prominent member. The interment will be at Ariington. Capt. Smith was born in Indianapolis, and when he was twenty-three years of age he vol-unteered his services in the war with Mexico, serving throughout the campaign with a meritorious record. From 1847 to the beginning of the late war he was engaged in business at his Indiana home, but enlisted in the regular army as a member of the thirteenth United States regular infantry at the beginning of hostilities in 1861. The regiment to which Capt. Smith belonged was Gen. Sherman's old command, and the memoirs of the Union general make favorable mention of Capt. Smith's gallant service in various battles in which the command took part, notably at the Chickasaw Bayon engagement near Vicksburg, where the battalion commander received a dangerous yound as his share of the casualties

While mustering officer at Keokuk, Iowa, just prior to his regiment's beginning active service, Capt. Smith mustered in Gen. Bussey and Secretary Foster, a fact which he ofte spoke of in connection with the changes coming about later. Capt. Smith resigned from he service in 1864, poor health compelling the step. His wife survives him.

This year's tags look so much like those of last year that it is difficult for the men in the wagon to distinguish them while either the canine or the wagon is in motion.

The work of the poundmen, together with the action of the police, has been the means of causing many owners of dogs to appear at the tax office and part with their $2 for the privilege of keeping the animal for another year.

The police have sworn out a large number of warrants against persons for failing to have collar and tag on the dogs that belong to them,

APPEARANCE OF THE THRONG. They sat about on the benches or stood to gether in little groups and talked big words at a rate that frightened even the vulgar little birds that have not gone out of town for the summer into an awed silence. The scene was much like that at an ordinary Saturday concert, only the faces were strange and there was a degree of indifference or eccentricity as t dress on the part of some of the distinguished gentlemen that precluded any supposition that it was a gathering of idlers who had nothing but their clothes to engross their attention There was scarcely a man in all the crowd wh was not an interesting figure in the world of science. Strong, intellectual faces, deeply marked with the lines of thought and study, were everywhere.

One of the most striking figures on the lawn was a little old man with hair that was almos white and a smoothly shaven, sharp-featured face, shaded by an immense "plug" hat that vividly reminded one of Senator Evarts. He walked slowly about, looking at everything with a pair of deep-set, good-natured blue eyes, his manner plainly betokening that this was his first visit to Washington and that he was very much interested in everything he saw. He was Dr. Edward Murphy, a long-time mem-ber of the Association for the Advancement of Science, and an onlooker rather than a participant in the learned discussions.

Over west of the band's stand Commodore A.

E. Douglass of the New York Yacht Club, who as scientist and sailor is known all over the world, stood under the trees talking to Dr. Morse of the State Department, Pof. Otis Mason of the National Museum and Miss Mason. The commodore is a tall, hearty-looking gentleman of some fifty years, with a closely trimmed white mustache, clear gray eyes, and he always wears a suit of dark blue. He is getting a bit old for active yachting and has become even more enthusiastic in the collection of stone imlements than he is on yachting, both of which 'fads' his fortune enables him to follow to the full bent of his taste. His collection of accient stone implements is conceded to be the daintiest and in some respects the rarest in the country, every specimen in the collection be-ing absolutely perfect. He will not have an imperfect specimen in his cabinets. He is one of the kindliest men in the world and his goldbowed spectacles seem to glisten with good nature. His collection of friends is even larger

The man who has brought more pleasure t the hearts of the children and pretty girls of America than any one else in the country, with the possible exception of Santa Claus, was among the scientists. He is the man who makes "Prang's" Christmas cards and valentines. In appearance he is a tall, rather stoop-shouldered man of about fifty-five, whose good-natured face is almost covered with a set of thick, griz zled whiskers. Mr. Prang wore a dusty black slouch hat and a suit of black clothes that did not fit a bit too well. A large share of his im-mense business is the making of scientific illustrations. He has done so much of this kind of work that he is almost a scientist himself and

A BEMARKABLE TRIO. A remarkable trio of gentlemen who stood talking together was composed of Prof. Alfred Springer, the widely known young physicist; Prof. Edward S. At a meeting held recently by the members of Anchor Lodge, No. 9, L. O. M., active measures were taken toward the formation of a social club to be known as Anchor Socials. Its objects are for the double purpose of enjoyment and to create a fund to assist in providing for the widows and orphans and many members who are dependent upon Anchor Lodge. The club elected the following officers: President, Thomas H. Watson; vice president, Albert G. Stevens; secretary, Samuel W. Gillingham; treasurer, Alexander T. Evans. A GOOD MARCH Made by Company A, Fifth Battalion, to Har per's Ferry. ence of The Evening Star

CAMP CLAY, HARPER'S FERRY, W. VA., August 19, 1891.

At 4 p. m. today the stars and stripes wer planted on a green knoll on the spacious lawn n front of Green's Mountain House, and the adies are happy with the prospect of brass buttons and shoulder straps for a week at least Company A of the fifth battalion, D. C. N. G., which left Washington last Monday morning for a practice march to Harper's Ferry, have accomplished a task of which any veteran might well feel proud. The first day they marched twenty-two miles, camping at Thrift's farm. The second night's stop was at Gott's mills, forty miles from Washington, and at 4 p. m. Wednesday the boys entered Harper's Ferry. Monday and Tuesday nights' halts were made at the same places as those of the cavalry de-tachment in its recent trip to Winchester, and the cavalry boys third camp was four miles from Harper's Ferry.

The members of company A have proved themselves true soldiers and Cant Berson has themselves true soldiers, and Cap*. Benson has ust cause to be proud of them. Officers and men all arrived in good shape, and with the tent. Private Page deserves special mention for his pluck in insisting upon remaining with the command and refusing all offers of assist-ance from his comrades, although his feet were in a very bad condition. Several of the boys say they could cover more distance tomorrow than on any day of the march. The boys have free access to Capt. Green's large orchard, which is well stocked with all kinds of fruit. The Shenandoah and Potomac afford excellent fishing grounds and last, but not least, there are quite a number of charm-ing ladies stopping at the hotel who seem very willing to entertain and be entertained. Our soldiers expect to have lots of fun and at the same time a great deal of hard work will be

AN ADDITION TO THE ST. ELIZABETH'S BUILDINGS The Government Hospital for the Insane has received into it family of buildings a new boiler house. It is of Potomac blue stone and is built in the lap of a ravine. The architecture is rugged and the structure looks as though put up for business. It fronts about fifty feet east and west, has a depth of eighty feet and a height of forty. On the north side is a brick chimney that not only rises clear of the ravine, but peeps above surrounding roofs at Washington and hungers to shake hands with the monument. foundation to cap, with a flue six feet square and a draft one hundred and seventy-five feet ranged the six 80-horse power boilers. Thes pilers are to supply steam heat and sweeter ground floors of the other buildings. will cause the condensed steam to trickle back to the boilers and be revaporized At present the main building is fitted with hot water boilers, two at each end. These are fired in the basement, and Dr. Godding, the superintenders, desires to avoid any possibility of calling into carries the search. of calling into service the scores of plugs standpipes and carriages of hose with which the institution is equipped. The Toner build-ing has an idependent steam heating apparatus, ast and West lodges, Howard an alls, Relief, Retreat, Daws' and buildings have steam pipes fed from the 100-horse boilers that sizzle at the engine house. So soon as the new order of things begins these boilers will have only machinery to drive. The pipe conduits are nearly complete and things are in such an advanced stage that Dr. Godding intends to blister the first frost that omes. Another duty of the new structure is to provide quarters for the engines and dynaos that are in all probability soon to electric light the grounds and edifices of this asylum.
This is an improvement for which the superintendent in his next report will ask an appropri-

A BUICIDAL ATTEMPT. One of St. Elizabeth's inmates named Mutchal came near doing himself fatal injury a few days ago. Mutchal's mind is badly out of repair, but during his residence at the hospital he has been distinguished for a docile temper. For this reason he was allowed to cat at table. While dining he secreted a knife, com-plained of being unwell and went to his room. The attendant, Air. Vaughan, missing the knife, went to Mutchal's room. It was found that Mutchal had driven the knife into his side very near the heart and was apparently waiting to die, satisfied that he had indicted upon himself a fatal wound. Vaughan deprived him of the knife and secured medical attention for Mutchal, who is doing well.

The B. and O. Opposed to a Rate War. General Passenger Agent Scull of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad says the statement that the Baltimore and Ohio has cut or threatened to cut their passenger rates from Cincinnati and Chicago to New York or anywhere else is not true. He has had no correspondence with the general passenger agent of the Erie rail-road or any other person upon the subject, and he can't see how such reports could have orig-inated. The Baltimore and Ohio, Mr. Scull says, is not a rate disturber at any time, and it is too have just now particularly in taking says, is not a rate disturber at any time, and it is too busy just now particularly in taking care of and developing its local business to engage in a rate war. He says, further, that railroad wars do not add to the revenue of railroad companies or result in any permanent advantage to the public, and the Eultimore and Ohio is opposed to them.

THE FIRST ARRIVES. The first boat on the Chesapeake and Ohi canal since the flood of June 30, 1889, arrived last night from White's Ferry with a load of baled hay, consigned to Geo. T. Dunlap. Several coal boats are on their way, but coming to a defect in one of the locks the heavily loaded ones have not been able to pass.

But not at all intimidated was Bloom by his threats, and after a short struggle he was dispossessed of his weapon and was on his way to the seventh precinct station. GOOD TEMPLARS' ENTERTAINMENT.

The members of the order of Good Templa who failed to attend the entertainment at Silver Lodge last night missed a treat. Dr. Whitne and Mr. W. S. Rawley delivered short address and an excellent program was rendered by the Columbia Amateur Orchestra, under the leadership of J. Dexter Rhodes, jr. Ice cream and cake were served afterward by a bery of beautiful girls. Such an institution with so many energetic workers is sure to be a success. NOTES.

Surgeon Buchanan treated the boys' sore Mr. Graham Mackall, who has for some time past been confined to his home from injuries sustained in an attack upon a son of old Virfeet each night and but few suffered to any exginia, is now convalescent. See the advertisement in another WILL FIGHT NEAR VALPARAISO.

The Result of the Revolt in Chili May Hang Upon It.

A dispatch to the New York Herald from Valparaiso says: The insurgent army, numbering about 8,000 men, landed at Quintere bay yesterday morning, being brought down by eight transports, three tugs and four war ships from Caldera. The point of landing i about seven miles from Valparaiso, about fifty miles from where Balmaceda's forces, number ing 10,000 men, are stationed at Santiago. It appears that the insurgent fleet has been hovering in the neighborhood of Coquimbo for some time, which led the Balmacedists to anticipate an attack on that place, but it now looks as though this was done to deceive Balmaceda. The president, as soon as he learned of the landing of the insurgents at Quintero bay, sent a large force to meet the enemy. The Esmeraida, commanded by Silva Palna, is just outside the harbor, and it is expected that she will be joined at once by other insurgent ves-sels from Quintero bay, and it would seem that with the advance of the land force upon this city the fleet will open fire upon the forts that defend the harbor. Valparaiso is well fortified, however, and will make a desperate resistance to any onslaught of the enemy. Should a fight take place it will be a desperate one, as upon the result probably depends the complete overthrow of the Balmacedists or the failure of the
